

A professional portrait of Reggie E. Keaton, an older man with glasses, wearing a dark pinstriped suit, white shirt, and a green and black striped tie. He is sitting in a brown leather tufted chair, smiling slightly, and looking towards the camera. In the background, a laptop is visible on a desk, and a window shows a blurred outdoor scene.

Reggie has 30 years of experience in civil litigation. This includes construction, government related contracts, business, commercial, and products liability. He has extensive experience handling complex litigation in the area of construction law – representing contractors, owners, and design professionals.

After graduating from Carson-Newman University, Reggie attended the University of Tennessee College of Law. He graduated with High Honors and received the Order of the Coif. He joined Frantz, McConnell and Seymour, LLP in 1984. He has always enjoyed taking an active role of service in the community and legal profession – from volunteer work and serving on boards. He has been past president of the Knoxville Bar Association, the Hamilton Burnett American Inn of Court, and the Knoxville Barristers. With construction law being an important part of Reggie's practice, he served on a special committee of the Tennessee Bar Association that drafted legislation to improve Tennessee's Mechanics and Materialmen's Lien Law, and he is also a member of the Tennessee Association of Construction Counsel. Reggie was named by Best Lawyers for his practice in the area of Commercial Litigation, and he is a member of the International Association of Defense Counsel.

When Reggie is not in the office, he enjoys spending time with his wife and three sons. He and his sons have enjoyed visiting major league baseball parks around the country.

Reggie truly enjoys being an advocate for his clients. His broad experience in representing individuals and businesses over the years help him to efficiently assist his clients in resolving their legal issues.
