Currently James concentrates his practice in areas such as personal injury litigation, workers' compensation, toxic tort litigation, products liability, firearms law, probate, estate planning and insurance. His varied legal experience helps him analyze and resolve issues in all areas of practice for his clients.

James has been privileged to represent many of the same clients over his entire career. He handles each case with a view toward a long-term relationship. In the more than 25 years he has practiced law, James has been involved in all areas of practice. He has appeared at every level of state court in Tennessee, as well as being admitted to practice in federal district courts, the Court of Appeals for the Sixth Circuit and the U.S. Supreme Court. He is a member of the Knoxville and Tennessee Bar Associations and the National Association of Railroad Trial Counsel. He has been a member of a district investigating committee of the Tennessee Board of Law Examiners for almost 20 years, investigating the fitness of applicants for a license to practice law.

James received his undergraduate degree from East Tennessee State University. He then worked as a police officer before graduating from the University of Tennessee College of Law. He joined the firm of Frantz, McConnell & Seymour, LLP in 1993. In his free time, James enjoys spending time with family, teaching and participating in shooting sports, and gardening. He frequently writes articles to keep his clients up to date on firearms law.

James is approachable and solves issues with humor and finesse. He provides his client with reliable, dependable service.
